GREAT FIFTY CENTS ON THE DOLLAR

SALE OF CLOTHING

We are going to make some improvements in our store room after January 1st. The contract is signed and sealed with the contractors—consequently we are compelled to sell our stock or pack it away. We prefer selling it at a sacrifice.

NOTHING RESERVED.

Every suit of Clothes, every Overcoat, every Pair of Pants marked in plain figures. We will just split them in half. This means 50 cents on the dollar. The cheapest sale of fine ready made Clothing in Kentucky.

Our business is not conducted by fakes and guessing schemes. The man that's selling watch chains on the street corner for $1, throwing in a watch just to show his generosity, needs watching. "Bunco Stealers," "Razle Dazle," tricksters and green goods sharps always promise great returns from small investments. Intelligent minds are on the watch, and take no stock in such humbuggery. 'Tis value they want.

100 CENTS WORTH OF GOODS

Is what we give the people. But at this sale

100 CENTS WORTH AT 50 CENTS ON THE DOLLAR!

YOUNG MEN IN POLITICS.

The Longest Term of Cabinet Service of the Government.
Tom Benton began his illustrious 30 years in the Senate when he was 38. John M. Clayton had just passed his 33d golden milestone in life when he took the oath of a Senator, though in the interim he had for a short time been Chief Justice of Delaware and also Secretary of State for President Taylor, and in that capacity accomplishing the Clayton-Bulwer treaty. Calhoun was 29 when first sent to Congress, and but 35 when he entered on his seven years' administration of the War Department under President Monroe, which, with one exception, was the longest term of cabinet service in the history of the government. Calhoun had shown his aptitude for public life long before coming to Congress, his service at the age of 25 in the South Carolina Legislature.

Henry Clay was remarkable in everything, and in nothing more than in the confidence and enthusiasm he inspired when a very young man. The history of American politics can show no parallel. He was appointed first to the Senate at 29, before he was of constitutional age. At the age of 34 he entered the House to be elected Speaker on the first day of his appearance in that body. His fame as Speaker in the Kentucky Legislature had preceded him, and five times he was re-elected to that great office. New York sent young men to Congress—Edward Livingston and W. R. King—to the Senate at 31 and 33 respectively. W. Johnson, of Maryland, who presided over the first body that nominated Clay for the Presidency, was but 26 when he entered Congress. John Tyler was 37 when elected to the Senate. Nathaniel Mason, who was in Congress 37 years from Georgia, and was for nearly a quarter of a century called the father of Congress, was but 34 when he was sent to the Second Congress in 1791. Keitt, of South Carolina, who achieved fame in the antebellum Congress, and fell fighting for the Lost Cause, was but 28 when he took his seat in the House.

Fernando Wood, the self-made man, who rose from the cigar maker's bench to the leadership of a great party in Congress, was but 30 when he entered the House in 1841. Wilmot, of proviso fame, was 31 when he appeared on the scene where he was to play so great a part. His successor was Joshua A. Giddens, also known to fame, and he was but 27 in 1850, when he first took the oath as a M. C. The precocity of this Pennsylvania Congressman had reassured itself in the Forty-eighth Congress when Geo. A. Post, of Susquehanna Station, appeared as the youngest member of the House, being but 26.

Andrew Jackson lived so long and so well that we forgot what was a most notable thing in his career. He was a revolutionary soldier trudging along the march, or pacing sentinel duty, and fighting the enemy with his old flint lock musket, when he was but 14 years old. At 23 Washington made him district attorney for Tennessee. At 29 he was a United States Senator.

John C. Beckenridge was the youngest vice President this country ever had. He came to Congress at 35, and at 35 was elected on the ticket with Buchanan, and was installed as President of the Senate. Caleb Cushing, who carved out a great name for himself as a lawyer and statesman, was 30 when he entered Congress. So, too, was the case with Winthrop, who, when elected Speaker of the Thirtieth Congress, in 1847, was but 28. Charles Sumner was a young Senator when at 40 he took the seat of Daniel Webster.

A TRIBUTE OF RESPECT

To the Memory of Clara E. Kenney—Died January 30, 1892.

This bright and innocent little girl had a very delicate physical organization, while her mental and spiritual capabilities were quite superior to most children of her age. She had scarcely reached her fifteenth anniversary when the summons of death came, January 20, 1892. She shrank not from its swaying power, but with beautiful and childlike trust in Christ, committed her soul to the care of Him who said: "Of such is the kingdom of heaven." She has gone in the spring time of life, ere her life had been dimmed by a cloud. How rare these words of the Savior to the dying child. How precious this thought to surviving friends. What a message of love and comfort to an earthly parent, who has been called to watch the ebbing of a young life as wave after wave breaks feeble, and the sinking breath and fluttering pulse are lower still; when, at last, coming quiet sign that a passing quiet of the lip—the child now leaves its body as an angel asleep in her Father's arms, while her spirit ascends to the City of God with her mother in Heaven.

There Will Be Music.

It looks very much as if the lobby is about to take a hand in the statute revision business at Frankfort. Personal, political, judicial, local and other interests are represented in force in the capitol, prepared to bring every possible influence to bear on the Legislature when it under takes the task of redistricting the State into judicial districts. There will be music when the report of the Revisionary Commission is taken up, for there will be war between these varied interests, neither of which should be given any weight in the consideration of the question. There appears to be a sort of prejudice among the Legislators against the work of the Revisionary Commission, and it is itself itself in the consideration of the redistricting report. Now, the Commission was not subjected to the same untoward influences that surround the Legislature, and the latter will have to do its work in a more independent and impartial manner than now seems likely, if the people do not accord more confidence to the plan of the Commission than to that of the select committee of the Assembly.—Covington Commonwealth.

Defining Judicial Districts.

The House and Senate Committees on Judicial Redistricting have agreed to meet separately, each divide the State as it considers best, and then unite upon a report. Even with all this precaution a great many are firmly convinced, since the interests are so many and so wide reaching, that it will be necessary to caucus on the matter before everybody is brought into the room. The Senate side of the committee held its meeting last week. Up to date the Senate members, beginning in western sections of the State, have mapped out twenty districts, and has brought them far as Lexington. But it is by no means a complete task, and an adjournment has been had to give everybody time to correspond with the clerks in the various counties that all the details as to the number of cases tried and the character of the litigation may be weighed in forming the districts. It has been agreed to form in the neighborhood of thirty districts, and the population limit has been fixed at 60,000.

After the districts are all planned the dates of holding court in the several jurisdictions will be fixed.

Revising the School Law.

Superintendent of Public Instruction Thompson is anxious that the whole school law of Kentucky shall be revised, and has accumulated a great deal of data on the subject. Among other things, he has secured letters from almost every clerk in the various counties that all the details as to the number of cases tried and the character of the litigation may be weighed in forming the districts. It has been agreed to form in the neighborhood of thirty districts, and the population limit has been fixed at 60,000.

Mr. SPENCER COOPER—Dear Sir:—You will find $1 enclosed for which you will send me THE HERALD this year. I am doing well—getting all the practice I can do now. Would have sent for THE HERALD before now, but have been neglecting it.

A STRANGE INFATUATION.

A Young Lady Murdered at Memphis, Tenn., by her Lover.

The mystery in which the cause of the murder of Miss Freda Ward, by Miss Alice Mitchell, is involved, is as dense as ever. The developments rather increase than diminish the mystery. The theory of the State's attorneys that the crime was born in a desire to avenge an injury, which Miss Mitchell thought had been done her by members of the Ward family, is controverted by new evidence of her extraordinary infatuation for her victim.

In an interview with her counsel soon after the murder, Miss Mitchell said: "I killed Freda because I loved her and she refused to marry me. I asked her to marry me three times, and at last she consented. We were going to marry here and then go to London."

"What did you intend to do in St. Louis?" asked one of her attorneys.

"Oh, I do not know, but when Freda promised to marry me I was so happy. I sent her an engagement ring and she wore it for a time, but when it was returned I was miserable. I could not bear to be separated from her, and I resolved to kill her. I would rather see her dead than away from me."

The girl then asked one of the lawyers where Freda was. She was told that the body was at the undertaker's.

"Oh," said she, "if I could only see her. Please let me go to see her. If I could only lie down by her side I would be so happy."

When permission was refused she broke into a torrent of tears, not for having killed Freda, but for the separation. The letters that she wrote to Freda are full of the most endearing terms, and go to show that the girl eagerly looked forward to the time when she could make Freda her wife. It also appears that Freda willingly consented to the proposed union, and that the time was fixed for the engagement. On the other hand, the State's attorneys have learned that on Monday afternoon Miss Mitchell was followed to the scene of the murder by a man in a buggy, who stopped and watched her while she did the butchery, and when it was finished, drove rapidly away.

It is also learned that Miss Mitchell and Miss Lillie Johnson, who also charged with the murder, have recently taken out of the postoffice a number of letters addressed respectively to "Jesse James" and "Freda Ward."

The plan of the defense in Miss Mitchell's case will be insanity, and in support of this theory it will be shown that her mother was deranged for some time prior to her birth, and also for a few months immediately preceding the birth of her oldest brother.

Miss Mitchell does not feel the confinement in jail, but it is worse than a school-girl, a slight punishment. On other subjects she talks rationally, as she does on the killing, but for the peculiar views she entertains on the proposed marriage.—Memphis special to Courier-Journal.

"Uncle Sam."

At the beginning of this century the slaughtering of cattle and the packing of beef for the New York, Boston and Philadelphia markets was pursued exclusively by the firm of Ebenezer & Samuel Wilson, two brothers from Mason, N. H., who had settled at Troy in 1789. At their two-story house they frequently killed 1,000 head of cattle each week for shipment to the three cities. When the war of 1812 began their beef and pork were in great demand, and not a few army contractors gave them large orders for the delivery of these meats packed in barrels at certain places where the army of the North was encamped. From time to time the contractors indicated for the delivery of these provisions at the camp at Greenbush, where, among other recruits, were a number from Troy. The soldiers from Troy, seeing the barrels of beef and pork marked with the letters "U. S." by the government inspectors, denominated them as "Uncle Sam's," meaning that Samuel Wilson, whom they familiarly called "Uncle Sam," was the person from whom the meat had been purchased. The other soldiers assuming that the term "Uncle Sam" was applied to the United States, stamped on the barrels began using the appellation "Uncle Sam" figuratively for the United States Government. From that time the designation "Uncle Sam" for the letters "U. S." grew into popular acceptance, and has ever since been as familiarly known as that of "John Bull" for the English nation.

Local Legislation.

Constitution or no Constitution, the Senate Judiciary Committee reported a bill to buy the land on which the building of a bridge in Breathitt county, and expressed the opinion that it should pass. Judge Lindsay, who made the report, explained that there were some kinds of local legislation which the Constitution did prohibit; likewise that was the opinion of his committee and himself, and they proposed to stand by it until somebody else took the matter up. The bill, it will be recalled, had been previously considered and was referred to this committee for an expert diagnosis of the Constitutional question involved.

It is a fact worth knowing that, as a household remedy, for children and adults, Ayer's Pills are invaluable.

WASHINGTON LETTER.

From Our Regular Correspondent.

WASHINGTON, D.C., Jan. 29, 1892.

The war crisis has passed much to the disgust of the young naval officers and other ambitious of earning glory at the cannon's mouth, and of the men who had hoped to largely increase their bank accounts by means of profitable government contracts, and the pleasure of ordinary folks. It is now conceded by those who were at first inclined to blame President Harrison for unnecessary haste in sending an ultimatum, and in sending the correspondence and his vigorous message to Congress, that he was pursuing the very best course for the country. It was necessary to convince Chili that this government intended to enforce the demands it had made by force if it was necessary, and in no other way could this have been done so speedily. In Congress all political differences were for the time forgotten and every body became intensely American. The result, as might have been expected, is an abject apology from Chili. It is not the first time that active preparations for war have resulted in assuring peace.

The Farmer's Alliance Representatives were given their first official recognition in the House by being allowed one hour out of the seven devoted to debate on the new rules. Representative Otis, of Kansas, after stating that the third party was founded on the equal rights Jeffersonian doctrine, on the policy of Washington, and upon the Lincoln ideal of the superiority of labor to capital, criticized the rules as conferring a dangerous power on the Speaker and the Committee on Rules. Representative Watson, of Georgia, made the principles of the Alliance the basis of his remarks, and the tolling millions of the land were looking to those principles as their only means of relief. Other Alliance members also made brief speeches.

If Oklahoma does not become a State during the present Congress it will not be for any lack of effort on the part of delegate Harvey, who looks after the interests of that hardscrabble Territory in the House. He has already introduced a bill to that effect.

The resolution providing for an investigation as to whether the appropriations heretofore made for the World's Fair has been judiciously expended has been favorably reported to the House, and it will be passed. This does not indicate a hostile feeling towards the exposition; on the contrary, it is intended to furnish the managers an opportunity to show Congress how well the appropriations have been spent, and the amount to grant the appropriation of $5,000,000 now asked for. There are those, however, who do not think the showing made will be favorable to the managers.

A bill to prohibit the sale of firearms to Indians residing on reservations has been favorably reported to the Senate. Representative Livingston, of Georgia, this week introduced a bill for the establishment of a system of sub-treasures, in accordance with the Ocala demands of the Farmer's Alliance.

Representative Rogers, of California, is not enamored of the new House rules. He says his people want some appropriations for their harbors, and that he understands the rules and that he will not "in it" unless he can get a "pull" on the River and Harbor Committee.

There is a movement among the Cleveland Democrats to throw their strength to Carlisle, if, as reported, Mr. Cleveland shall decline to allow his name to go before the convention. This movement is so new that its strength cannot be estimated at this time, but there are good reasons for the belief that Mr. Cleveland will not favor the nomination of Mr. Carlisle.

The Senate, without a division, adopted the report from the Committee on Elections confirming the right of Senator Chilcutt, appointed by the Governor of Texas, to serve out the unexpired term of Senator Reagan, to his seat.

Ever since China refused to receive Senator Blair as Minister from this country, there have been ugly rumors around Washington intimating that the influence of certain American interested in certain concessions which they hoped to get from China had more to do with it than Mr. Blair's Congressional record on the Chinese question. Whether the rumors influenced Senator Morgan I cannot say, but he was elected a resolute, and was adopted by the Senate, requesting the President to furnish copies of all the correspondence between the two governments on the subject, if it can be done without injury to the public interests.

The National Board of Trade, with representatives from all the principal cities of the country, has been in session here for three days this week. A feature of the meeting was an attack on the Interstate Commerce law, which the Board does not believe in.

LETTER FROM TEXAS.

A Description of that Country by a Member of the County Jury.

ELDORADO, Texas Jan. 26, 1892. EDITOR HERALD:—According to a former promise to my many Kentucky friends, I will describe this beautiful country. I arrived at Quanah on Friday last at 5:08 p. m. There I took a view of what we Kentuckians would call a delightful country composed of vast prairies but somewhat broken. On Saturday, at 10:30 a. m. I arrived at the beautiful little city of Eldorado. I was then conveyed from there to the residence of Mr. Fayette James, formerly of Wolfe county, Ky. where I partook of their genial hospitality, which could only be duly appreciated by a weary traveler of some 1,300 miles. Dinner was soon announced, the preparation of which was only possible with a Kentucky lady. After we had done full justice to our meal, I was accompanied by my friends James and Mort (Walter) Pierratt. As we all did not have horses, we roamed over the prairie for some twelve miles and returned about sun down, and then partook of a Kentucky supper.

Mr. Pierratt and myself on Sunday hired a rig and went to Quanah, a distance of 14 miles. We have here a variety of soil; some near the river being very sandy. Here they have severe s. n. l. storms. Next to this lies a black soil, however, not very heavy. Then we find a red soil. There is very little difference in the producing quality of each.

On the 19th of the present month came the severest snow storm ever experienced in the State. The snow in many places drifted to the height of four feet and belated the south bound trains ten hours.

This section of the State is being settled up very rapidly. Six months ago there were only one or two houses to be seen in this section, and to day I stood in the yard and counted eighteen houses, and there are quite a number who will build as soon as they can. I bought a claim of 320 acres yesterday, and will begin plowing in a day or two. Wheat crops look well, and big preparations are being made for a large crop. Stock of all kinds is high. Young men when they come here should be able to buy a claim of their own, as there is no work for you only through harvest. If a man depends on public works for a support he has no business here. Every man does his own work. Come and look for yourselves. One man can cultivate three times the amount of land here that he can in Kentucky and the yield is much better, nevertheless we are subject to droughts here; and admitting that they occur every year we can raise more in two years than you can in three, and do it with much less work. Mort Pierratt has a quarter section, one yoke of cattle, and says he can break two acres of soil every day and raise more "lats" than any man. He also has his dug-out nearly complete, and the next thing in order is an Indian squaw. Ha! ha! Mort and his honey!

You will please send THE HERALD to Eldorado, Texas, instead of Rothwell, Ky. With best wishes to all and a beautiful success to THE HERALD, I am, very respectfully, C. F. RINGO.

C. W. Milliken was a guest of the Day House Wednesday night.

J. W. Craven has swapped his pair of mules for a team of horses.

Fred Day was confined to his house several days this week by illness.

Owing to the late arrival of our paper from the station we this week print a half sheet.

John M. Rose is buying cattle in Breathitt, Lee and Osage counties for the Mt. Sterling market.

Mrs. Combs, Cora and Lena and two or three others are sick with the grip at the dormitory.

Mort Pieratt and wife, of Ezell, came up Wednesday night to be with their son Berry, who is quite sick.

Josh DeBusk is getting ready to build a new house on the lot he recently purchased from Crook Coldiron.

J. W. Craven has just returned from Booneville and Beattyville, and he says both places are "as dead as a door nail."

Berry Pieratt, son of J. M. Pieratt, of Ezell, was taken sick at the residence of W. T. Swango, in this place Wednesday, and Dr. Taulbee was called to see him.

Miss Nannie Fields and Miss Florence Quickall, of Ezell, who are attending school at the Academy, paid our office a pleasant call Wednesday in company with Miss Ida Taulbee, also a student of the Academy.

There are 127 students enrolled at the Hazel Green Academy. Thirty matriculated last week, and ten new ones were enrolled this week. It certainly pays to advertise, and Prof. Cord knows how to use printers' ink as well as any one.

Ova Swango, the youngest son of Samuel Swango, started for Texas Thursday morning. He did not know just where he would land, but it is probable that he will hang up about Eldorado, where so many Wolfe county people have invested.

Mrs. Lou Day, mine hostess of the Day House, has just added a six-room addition to her hotel, and is now better than ever prepared to accommodate the traveling public, and drummers say "it is the best hotel in the mountains." T. J. Stephenson had the contract for the addition.

The nurse reported in our Dick's Glory letters being stolen from Dick Perkins, was after forward found on a branch of Gillmore creek with a bullet hole in her forehead. She was not dead, and was led back home. The perpetrator of this deed, whoever he may be, should be dealt with in the severest and most summary terms.

See the advertisement of Rose & DeBusk, which appears in our paper today. These gentlemen are practical workmen, stick close to business and are deserving of the nice patronage they are receiving. They make a specialty of wagon building, and those in need of a first-class vehicle should give them a call.

Floyd Day has just returned from Clay City, and he tells us that the place is now taking on a new lease of life. The mill will soon start up again and give employment to 150 or 200 hands. Mr. Day is the manager, and so he says he will be prepared in June to make contracts for logs, etc. The capital of the new mill company is $500,000.

Leander Brooks has our thanks for the largest and finest horncuts nest we have ever seen, and we are thinking of sending it to the World's Fair at Chicago. It measures four feet seven inches around the long way, and three feet six inches in circumference. Mr. Brooks says it is the largest one he has ever seen, and we should like to hear from the press of the State if anything to excel it has ever been discovered in the dark and bloody ground.

Dr. J. A. Taulbee reports the following: Miss Mary Ellen Pieratt, at home on the morning of the 21st ult. Henry was heard singing the following verses, and when asked the cause of his happiness, he said it was a girl. Henry's little song:

There came to port last Friday morn
 The queerest little craft,
 Without an inch of rigging on—
 I looked, I sighed, I laughed—

I thought it was no strange that she Should cross the unknown water,
 And move herself right in my room—
 My daughter! Oh, my daughter!

Those who wish notices in THE HERALD as matters of news, though in reality as advertisements of their business, must pay for the same. THE HERALD is run in the interest of its patrons, and we will in no case "boom" an individual or institution unless they patronize its advertising columns, even though they are among our best subscribers. Our rates are very low for advertising, and those who wish to be advertised, and those who wish to be advertised, are very much of them or not, as they are disposed.

WOLFE COUNTY.

Campton Currency.
 "Avis" said in his letter last week that I (Supple Jack) was indicted for burglary. He was mistaken—I was indicted for house-breaking. I desire to inform the readers of THE HERALD that the grand jury made the indictment without any proof whatever. The particulars of the case are as follows:

On the night before the primary election, last September, some one broke into James Knowles' shoe shop and carried off a pair of boots belonging to Alex. Spencer. Shortly after that time, in the same month, I traded a pair of shoes for a pair of boots with a man I was afterwards informed to be James Green. A few days afterwards Mr. Spencer saw the boots and claimed them, and offered to wear them. I told him that if they were his I would give them to him, telling him at the same time that I had swapped for them. This conversation took place in the presence of John E. Drake. I took the boots home, telling Spencer he could have them whenever he wanted them. He got his boots and said he knew that I told him honestly. Mr. Knowles swore before the grand jury that his shoe was broken open by some one unknown to him. Mr. Drake swore that he was present when Spencer claimed the boots. This was the proof before the grand jury, which I do not deny. H. T. Cuddy and E. W. Tolson saw me trade for the boots, and will swear it, and the night before the primary, when Knowles says his shop was broken into, I was at Dr. Wyley Steele's, three miles from this place, and stayed there all night, and Dr. Steele and his whole family will swear it at any time. I am not uneasy about this case, for I am as innocent of the charge as the birds that warble forth their melodious songs among the trees that lift their banners of verdure in the gentle zephyrs heavenward, and I am proud that I can prove it by witnesses whose character is as bright as the noonday sun. So I hope the readers of your dear old HERALD will not think I am guilty of the charge of house-breaking.

The following were registered at the Combs House the past week: Thomas E. Roberts, Rothwell, Ky.; Enoch Vanderpool, Salyersville; T. W. Pigg, Louisville; Sam. Wren, Robert Carter, Charles W. Gross, Thomas Hill, London, Ky.; H. L. Games, Hiett, Co. Robert Blackburn, Stanton, Ky.; Robt. Mullins, Martin Dickman, Morning View; J. W. Craven, Hazel Green, James G. McCus, Mt. Sterling.

Taulbee Findings.

Rev. Lester Calhoun, of Hunting Creek, who has been suffering with the grip for some time, died January 28. He was well known throughout the surrounding country, and was well liked by everyone. He was strictly honest in every sense of the term. He was a member of the Baptist church for twelve or fifteen years, and was a minister of the gospel three or four years. He leaves a wife and two children to mourn his loss.

James K. Mullins, who went to Wisconsin last summer, returned home some time ago. He says wages are good there, and will return this summer in company with a considerable crowd from this section.

There is a great deal of sickness at and near Rousseau. The three youngest children of Heslin McQuinn are very sick, grip being the ailment. Mr. R. H. McQuinn is also very sick with the grip.

Your scribe had the pleasure of visiting Quicksand this week, and found everybody busily engaged at work in the timber business.

Mrs. Harrison King and Willie Carpenter are both still in a critical condition.

Mr. Ingram will go to Texas about the 15th inst., in company with David Hogg, W. F. Elkins and others. He sold his farm to Roe Nickell, but we did not learn the price.

GENERAL MERCHANDISE,

LIVE STOCK & COUNTRY PRODUCE.

"Good People, Play Progression,"

Buy your goods while they are cheap, and now is the time.

WE ARE SELLING OUT!

and this is our reason: We want to buy more goods.

Don't you see that is business. We are not in business merely for pleasure, nor for health, but for the profit, and the way to make it profitable is to sell everybody. And the way to sell everybody is to sell cheaper than anybody. And that is what we are going to do—for Cash or Country Produce.

We have extended the Credit System until we are compelled to close our books, and we respectfully ask those who owe us to come in and pay part or all of your note or account. Trusting you will heed this, we remain,

Very respectfully, &c., H. F. PIERATT & CO.

Do You Need Money?

If so, you can get something better than dollars from us. The completion of the K. U. R. R. to Jackson has cut us off from a large wholesale trade heretofore had by us in several counties east, and left on our hands an immense stock of goods, which we are compelled to unload, and in order to do so we are determined to make prices do the work, prices which will make our patrons happy and make competition howl. We offer to Country Merchants extra inducements, and guarantee to them lower prices than they ever got before. We are overstocked and must unload. Remember we will duplicate any bill, with freight added, either wholesale or retail, east or west, north or south, up hill or down. We are now receiving such lines, bought for CASH at bottom bargains, as will fill every department. New, fresh, seasonable, choice and cheap. We can astonish you with covered with goods at half prices. As the prices we name merely give us a chance to get our money out of the goods, we cannot afford credit. Goods will be sold for cash only, or country produce, live stock and school claims taken in exchange. We have opened a new department under the charge of Miss Laura Rawlings and Miss Lula Day, which is fully stocked with fine Millinery, Notions, Ladies' Furnishing Goods, Wall Paper, Carpets and Oil Cloths, School Books and Supplies, Pictures and Frames etc., etc. Miss Rawlings is a thoroughly competent Milliner and Dress Maker, and we offer you a City Stock to select from. You can get us fine and stylish Millinery and Dresses here as anywhere, and at the very lowest prices. Yours, etc.,
